BRITISH CABINET SWORN IN

COALITION BODY TO START BUSINESS OF BALANCING BUDGET

General Policy Will Not Differ Much From Old Plan

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The new cabinet of cooperation, born of one of the gravest crises in the history of Great Britain, was sworn in this morning before King George and the privy council at Buckingham Palace.

After the oath had been administered in a ceremony with its ritual dated back hundreds of years, the king distributed to his new ministers the seals of office which he had previously received from the members of the retiring cabinet.

A large crowd watched the procession of distinguished commoners and peers of the realm wear its way in automobiles to Buckingham Palace.

There was no demonstration except that as Prime Minister MacDonald, who deserted the socialistic principles of his party because he thought that national necessity compelled it, left his Downing Street residence with J. H. Thomas, a man darted from the small crowd assembled outside and shouted "Judas!"

The two Laborite ministers, both wearing morning clothes and silk hats, ignored the man and rode away in an automobile.

The retiring ministers were received in the Indian Room of Buckingham Palace. There they turned over their seals of office to the King in a polite ceremony which began at 10:30 a. m.

The new cabinet, consisting of four Laborites, four Conservatives and two Liberals, was scheduled to hold its first session at noon to consider measures for balancing the budget, among them a ten per cent reduction in the dole. It was over this question that the Labor cabinet split.

The cabinet taking over the government of Great Britain today consisted of the following representatives of the three Great British parties:

Prime Minister and First Lord of the Treasury, J. Ramsay MacDonald, Laborite.

Chancellor of the Exchequer, Philip Snowden, Laborite.

Lord President of the Council, Stanley Baldwin, Conservative.

Secretary of State for Dominions and Colonies, J. H. Thomas, Laborite.

Lord Chancellor, Lord Sankey, Laborite.

Secretary of state for home affairs, Sir Herbert Samuel, Liberal.

Secretary of state for India, Sir Samuel Hoare, Conservative.

Minister of health, Neville Chamberlain, Conservative.

President of the board of trade, Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, Conservative.

With the brief ceremonies of induction over, the cabinet launched again into its task of drawing up a scheme of new economies and new revenues to enable a balanced budget and save the pound sterling from collapse.

Generally speaking, the economy policies of the new ministry are expected to be largely the same as the late labor cabinet, but will include a ten per cent cut in the unemployment dole, enabling a saving of some $65,000,000 annually.

In addition, cuts in the army, navy and air force will save $45,000,000. Reduction in education expenditure will give the government some $55,000,000 extra. Other reductions were reported as follows:

Health building—$35,000,000.
Road services—$8,500,000.
Agriculture—$7,500,000.
Salaries of cabinet ministers, members of parliament and high civil servants also will be slashed, the total economies amounting for half of the threatened $500,000,000 budget deficit. The remainder will be met by additional revenues.

GANDHI WILL LEAVE TO ATTEND MEETING

BOMBAY, Aug. 26.—Mahatma M. K. Gandhi, leader of the Indian Nationalists, will sail for London on Saturday to attend the scheduled round-table conference on Indian affairs, it was learned today.

Gandhi had deferred his departure because of a difference of opinion with Viceroy Lord Willingdon over alleged torture and coercion by British officials in collecting taxes from peasants in the Gujarat district. It was reported at one time he had abandoned his intention of attending the conference entirely.

The other Indian delegates to the parley sailed more than a week ago.

CHINESE DOOMED IN FLOOD AREA

Map shows that section of China which is devastated by the flood waters of the mighty Yangtze. Cholera has added to the horror as the Chinese drink the polluted water, preferring to die quickly rather than endure a winter of starvation. The destitute are estimated at 5,000,000 and the death toll is expected to reach 2,000,000 by Christmas. Hankow is center of the flooded area.

SOUTHERN BANKERS CALLED TO TESTIFY IN PROBE OF CANNON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—A group of southern bankers was called before the Nye campaign fund committee today to shed further light on the financial operations of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., while he led the anti-Smith Democratic forces of the south in the 1928 presidential contest.

Wade H. Cooper, president of the Commercial National Bank of Washington; F. W. Sheffield, cashier of a Crewe, Va., bank; J. A. Booker, cashier of the Citizens National Bank at Blackstone, Va., and Perry Seay, vice president of the American Bank and Trust Co. at Richmond, were summoned. Cannon was reported to have kept campaign funds in all these banks during the 1928 race.

The committee learned from C. Bascom Slemmons, former secretary to President Coolidge, how Cannon obtained a $65,300 contribution from E. C. Jameson, New York dry.

Slemmons said he had met Jameson through former Senator Joseph Frelinghuysen (R) of New Jersey, and in turn introduced the bishop to the New Yorker. He told of "getting out of the way" as soon as Jameson promised to finance Cannon's campaign to turn the Democratic south into the Republican column.

One phase of Slemmons' testimony puzzled the committee. It concerned a letter written by Cannon in October, 1928, telling how three-fourths of the money pledged to Slemmons had been paid but asking that the remainder be paid by next Monday. Slemmons professed to have no idea as to what Cannon meant by this letter, declaring he had never pledged any fund to the bishop. He told though of a $7,500 personal contribution to Cannon in August, 1928, two months earlier, and added that Cannon may have referred to that money.

Slemmons denied having raised any money for Cannon, aside from a portion of the $7,500. He declared he knew nothing of the financial deals between Cannon and Cannon, although the records have disclosed the New Yorker paid $65,300 to the bishop.

Another item that aroused some curiosity was a letter written by Cannon to Sheffield, the Virginia banker, on Slemmons' office stationery.

Slemmons appeared surprised by this revelation and asked for a copy of the letter so "I can investigate it." He was told the matter would be "thoroughly explained" within the next few days.

BLANCHESTER, O., Aug. 26.—Despite the frantic efforts of a watchman to warn them of an approaching train, five persons, occupants of an automobile which was struck by the speeding flyer, were dead here today.

The victims were: Harry Leakey, 35, paper hanger, driver of the machine; Mrs. Mary Leakey, 32, his wife. A young son of the Leakeys, Mrs. Thomas White, 55, wife of a farmer residing nearby.

Miss Leta White, 14, daughter of Mrs. White. Leakey, who apparently failed to see the watchman or his red lantern, had a clear view of the tracks, witnesses said. The flagman waved his lantern and shouted a warning to the passengers in the car as it approached the grade crossing. It was said.

The accident occurred at the main street crossing of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in the center of Blanchester.

Mr. and Mrs. Leakey are survived by three daughters who were left at home when their parents and their brother went for a drive. Mrs. White is survived by her husband.

The proclamation, it was said at the White House, was signed as a result of the pleas of forty-three duck-shooting clubs and conservation associations. Its imposition was opposed by three ammunition manufacturers.

GERMAN SEAPLANE NEAR FINAL GOAL

CHARLESTOWN, S. C., Aug. 26.—With the goal of its ten-months' voyage from Germany in sight, the giant flying boat DO-X took off from Charleston harbor at 7:33 a. m. today for Norfolk, Va., and New York.

The giant craft taxied up the Cooper River, turned, raced back into the harbor and clipped gracefully into the air. Circling Fort Sumter, it turned to the northeast and faded into the distance.

Captain Fritz Hammer said he had not definitely decided whether he would fly to New York today, or remain over night at Norfolk after refueling, and proceed to the metropolis Thursday morning.

STOCKS IMPROVE
LONDON, Aug. 26.—Sterling improved upon the London market today as the national coalition cabinet grappled with the problem of economies. Stocks were steady, reflecting public confidence.

PORTSMOUTH, O., Aug. 26.—Five residences had been raided and two girls arrested on delinquency charges today in the Riverview, Ky., district, across the Ohio River from here, by W. S. Sturgill, Greenup County patrolman.

This action followed in the wake of activities of "night riders" who, claiming that the authorities failed to "clean up" the district, stoned two houses and burned one dwelling. Leaders of the "night riders" announced their intention of continuing their activities until twelve places in Riverview are closed.

TRAINS KILLS MAN
IRONTON, O., Aug. 26.—Authorities today regarded the death of Ike McClellan, 27, whose body was found on the Detroit, Toledo and Mount Vernon railroad tracks here, as accidental. They stated he apparently fell asleep on the rails and was hit by a train.

NATIONAL DRIVE TO OBTAIN RELIEF FOR NEEDY IS PLANNED

Gifford To Direct Campaign October 19 To November 25

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The driving power which made campaigns for funds during the World War a remarkable success throughout the country again will be brought into play when all America is asked to give for relief of the needy unemployed during the period, October 19—November 25, inclusive.

The spearhead of the drive will be Walter S. Gifford, director of the new committee on unemployment relief formed by President Hoover, in an effort to provide for the needy without calling upon the federal government for direct relief appropriations.

The campaign will be concluded a month before congress meets, when there is certain to be a hard battle for federal participation in the nation's emergency relief measures.

The amount to be sought in the campaigns could not be fixed at the conference at which the dates were agreed upon. For the next two weeks Director Gifford plans an intensive survey to determine what is necessary. Some estimates have placed the amount at not less than $250,000,000.

Director Gifford, who rose to leadership in the business world as head of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., has thrown himself wholeheartedly into the work.

When a half dozen representatives of relief organizations came into conference with him yesterday, he was confronted with the fact that usual dates for drives for winter relief conflicted. Decisive action was necessary to reach an agreement.

Having taken the first step in his relief work, Gifford today conferred with some members of the advisory committee named by President Hoover. Further conferences were planned for next week.

The work of Gifford, he emphasized upon taking office, will be to stimulate and coordinate local relief activities. The October drive has been described as "a national drive for local funds."

National radio hook-ups will be employed. Aid of newspapers sought and the "four minute men" of World War days may be called into action again.

The annual Red Cross falls during the date agreed upon, the roll call being from Nov. 11 to 25. This period is not disturbed.

Allen T. Burns, director of the Association of Community Chests, who participated in the conference, expects drives to be made in 257 cities having community chests.

TOKYO, Aug. 26.—The capital of the land of cherry blossoms gave the flying Lindberghs a huge ovation this afternoon as their black monoplane whirled down from over-cast skies to the surface of a lake near Kasumigaara airdrome here.

More than 20,000 persons, including almost the entire American colony of Tokyo and high Japanese officials, were on hand to roar a welcome to the couple, whose arrival had been awaited with anticipation for more than a week.

The Lindberghs landed at 2:09 p. m. (12:09 a. m. E. S. T.) as their engine stopped and the plane came to a stop near the landing stage. The crowd surged forward shouting "banzai!" an expression equivalent to hurrah.

The aviator and his wife smiled in return and shook hands with the welcoming committee. Escorted to the microphone set up near the radioed his greetings to Japan: "We had no sooner finished speaking when the announcer gave the news of the death of former Premier Hamaguchi, who was shot by an assassin last November. The death of the premier may interfere with the six-day program of the government for the entertainment of the Lindberghs."

IN HOME OF CHARLIE CHAN
HONOLULU, Aug. 26.—Searching for more tight holes in which to thrust the fictitious Honolulu detective Charlie Chan, hero of many exciting mystery stories, Earl Derr Biggers, creator of the yellow-skinned sleuth, has been prowling Honolulu's underworld seeking local color of suitable nature.

Supporters of the proposal pointed out that thousands of idle workers could be given employment in this manner. They said that 95 per cent of the money thus spent would go for wages and five per cent for tile. They urged the government to recommend use of several million dollars of state highway funds for the work and to advise county authorities to adopt the plan.

MEXICAN DEPUTY IS KILLED ON ROSTRUM BY HIS COLLEAGUES

DEATH A MYSTERY

Mystery surrounds the death of Mrs. Daisy Price, 25, above, bride of six weeks of Lieutenant Commander George D. Price, of the U. S. S. Lexington, who died from injuries suffered when she either was thrown or fell from her apartment window, in a San Francisco hotel. She died several hours after naval officers had attended a party in her apartment. The case is complicated by the finding of poison in Mrs. Price's body. Her home formerly was in Charleston, W. Va.

Deputies charged that Governor Ignacio de la Mora of Jalisco had violated the constitutional rights of citizens and had established a virtual dictatorship in his state.

After the shooting, the president of the chamber declared that the slain deputy and his colleagues from Jalisco had deliberately planned the disturbance in order to have an opportunity to "get" their opponents. He added that Ruiz had been the leader of the alleged plotters.

Shout Of "Cowards" Answered By Shots From Solons

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 26.—Funeral rites were being arranged today for Deputy Manuel H. Ruiz, of the state of Jalisco, who was killed last night as he stood on the rostrum of the chamber of deputies when his charge of cowardice hurled at his colleagues drew an answer in the form of sixty bullets from all sections of the chamber.

Two other deputies, Sebastian Aliende and Esteban Garcia Alva, and an unidentified spectator in the gallery were wounded. The condition of Senator Aliende, who was wounded in the back, was serious today.

The shooting followed an angry debate on the question of recommending the removal of the governor of Jalisco from office. Deputy Ruiz spoke in his defense but his voice was drowned by jeers and the president of the chamber ordered the session closed. As the noise died down, Ruiz hissed the word "cowards."

It was his last word. Revolvers flashed and cracked, Ruiz falling with seven wounds in his body. More than sixty shots were fired before the police succeeded in restoring order.

Deputies charged that Governor Ignacio de la Mora of Jalisco had violated the constitutional rights of citizens and had established a virtual dictatorship in his state.

After the shooting, the president of the chamber declared that the slain deputy and his colleagues from Jalisco had deliberately planned the disturbance in order to have an opportunity to "get" their opponents. He added that Ruiz had been the leader of the alleged plotters.

HOBO TO PLAYWRIGHT

That's Career Of Albert Bein, Whose First Play Is Ready For Production

Albert Bein, reformatory inmate, hobo, and, finally, playwright.

By CHARLES SAMUELS
Central Press Correspondent
NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—A 26-year-old youth who has been a reformatory inmate, a hobo and, briefly, a Hollywood satellite, sits in a little West Forty-fifth St. hotel these soggy summer days and nights while his first play—described as something spectacularly different from anything Broadway has known—is being prepared for production.

The young man of the widely diverse and almost incredibly dramatic experiences is Albert Bein. The play is "Little Ol' Boy," a burning record of the author's two unforgettable boyhood years in a southwestern reformatory.

Born in Russia
Bein was born in Russia and came to Chicago with his parents as a small child. School he quickly found tiresome and he ran away so often that the Windy City police grew weary of taking him home.

His expeditions into the outside world were terminated temporarily by arrest in a southwestern state and incarceration in a reform school. Released, he resumed his travels and roamed from coast to coast, from border to border, with intermittent stays in jails and occasional jobs in logging camps, oil fields and sawmills.

Three years ago Bein, while riding a freight train crossing the Arizona desert, fell asleep. When he woke up his left leg was cut off at the knee—he had fallen beneath the wheels.

Conquered and Writes
After four months in a local hospital he was taken by train to Chicago—on a stretcher. While convalescing he wrote a novel about underworld characters he had met. He called it "Love in Chicago," and used the pen name of Charles Walt, adopting the first names of his favorite authors, Dickens and Whitman.

The book made a sizeable hit, was purchased by the movies. Bein went to Hollywood to adapt it. His troubles, it appeared, were over. But "Love in Chicago" was never filmed.

Bein's next book, "Youth in Hell," failed to catch on. On the remnants of the small fortune he had taken out of Hollywood, he subsisted while he wrote a play about the things he had seen, heard and felt in his reformatory days.

"Too Many Boy Characters"
The play was sent to New York. Managers were enthusiastic, but none of them wanted to produce it. "There are seventy boy characters in it," one told Bein's agent, "and there aren't seven good child actors this side of Siberia."

Bein was desperate, broke, hungry. As a last resort he sent a copy of "Little Ol' Boy" to Ben Hecht.

The author was so captivated by the honesty and untheatrical dramatics of the piece that he wired Bein that he and Charles MacArthur—his collaborator in "The Front Page"—would put it on themselves if they couldn't find a producer for it.

With the advance royalties of $10,000, Bein came to New York to learn that Arthur Hopkins, veteran Broadway manager, would do "Little Ol' Boy."

Now Hopkins is casting, early next month he starts rehearsals, and Albert Bein, who never heard of George Jean Nathan until two months ago, waits in his little hotel room for the opening night. He has heard that his play will either be a smash hit or a dismal failure.

He waits and, to me, at least, he seems the most unBroadwaylike person who ever cupped his ear for the jeers or cheers of the tinsel hearted jade of a street that every one denounces and everyone loves.

CHURCH TO COMBINE OUTDOOR SERVICE, PICNIC AND OUTING

Combined Sunday School and church services followed by a picnic dinner will be the program at the First Lutheran Church, Sunday, according to the Rev. A. G. Lebold, pastor, and C. F. Mellage general Sunday School superintendent.

The program includes assembling the Sunday School and church members with visitors and guests at the church, 303 W. Main St., at 9:30 a. m. Those having autos are requested to bring them to provide conveyance for those who do not have a way to go.

The combined service will be held in Ketter's Grove, Wilmington Pike, in which singing and a program of object lessons will make the worship interesting to the children as well as the adults.

A covered dish picnic dinner served in cafeteria style will be in charge of the Ladies Aid Society following the worship. Members of the Dorcas Sunday School class taught by Miss Henrietta Fudge will furnish ice cream for the group.

The remainder of the program will consist of horseshoe pitching, croquet, and games for the children. No contest games for prizes will be used.

In planning the out-door service it is the desire of the committee that whole families will participate and that a better opportunity to get acquainted and visiting will be given.

In case of inclement weather, the entire affair will be held at the church and the dinner will be served in the Sunday School room.

versary Monday, August 24 at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Michener. Dickie received several nice presents.

CROSS-CONTINENT RECORD SHATTERED BY NEW PLYMOUTH

San Francisco to New York and return in 132 hours—

On this record-breaking trip a New Plymouth Sedan, standard in every detail, covered 6287 miles at an average speed of 47.52 miles per hour and more than 1140 miles a day.

This smashed the existing two-way transcontinental mark, set between Los Angeles and New York, by 9½ hours—the San Francisco-New York record by nearly 36 hours.

These marks were formerly held by cars costing several times the Plymouth price.

No greater example can be given of the astounding ruggedness, endurance and stamina of the New Plymouth. No finer proof can be offered of its performance, its power, its handling ease, its safety and its roadability.

Take a ride in the New Plymouth. Experience for yourself the performance which made this phenomenal record possible.

AVOID "ASH-TRAY" BREATH

SMOKE PURE-TOBACCO OLD GOLDS

It isn't good tobacco that spoils the perfect evening . . . by clouding your breath with the odor of stale cigarettes. Lingering and unpleasant cigarette breath comes from the fumes of greasy, ARTIFICIAL flavorings.

OLD GOLD contains no such added substances. It is a PURE-TOBACCO cigarette . . . free of those oily, foreign flavorings that burn into clinging, staining, breath-tainting vapors.

Whether you are a heavy smoker or a light one, you'll like the Nature-flavored OLD GOLDS. Their clean, sun-ripened tobaccos are like honey to your throat . . . And they leave no objectionable odors either on your breath, your clothing, or in the room.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Blessed shall be the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy ground, and the fruit of thy cattle, the increase of thy kine and the flocks of thy sheep.—Deuteronomy, iv, 28.

"WATCH US GROW"

The above is a favorite slogan in some rapidly advancing cities. Such boosters may talk in an exaggerated way in some places, they may claim more than they can back up. And yet this hopeful, achieving spirit is infinitely better than the carping criticism that you find in many communities, and which is a constant wet blanket that checks progress.

When people set out in a determined way to accomplish something, they are up to get results. When an influential group in any city is determined to push that place ahead and obtain more business and advantages, and when such a group of people get good support, that city can say "Watch us grow" with entire confidence.

THE CALL FOR LEADERSHIP

"We no longer have the great men of former years." This is one of the most frequent remarks made by observers of politics. They call for some George Washington or Thomas Jefferson or Abraham Lincoln to lead the country out of various troubles. But should we know a real Washington if we saw him? Probably he would advocate policies that would seem so hopeless to many of us, that we would turn him down at the polls, just as Washington was constantly turned down by the congress to which he appealed for better support of his ragged little army.

There are always plenty of able leaders, but there is a lack of recognition of them. The people hear the call of high idealism, of sound practical efficiency, but some more plausible appeal, some more taking catchword, something that seems to promise some element of the people some special advantage, appears to get the upper hand.

The people are so absorbed in their work and their play, the business of money making, the spending of money after they get it, that the appeals of the leaders sound uninteresting.

We need an active sentiment in every country, city and state in the land, to the effect that we should have a better national life, one in which crime and corruption should be suppressed, in which industrial warfare should cease, and in which the industries should be guided into such regular operation, that unemployment would disappear.

To accomplish that end, we must all study and ponder the words of our best national leaders, form intelligent opinions as to the measures they propose, and be prepared to back up those best measures with our votes. The newspapers of Ohio present these opinions clearly and intelligently. Our first job is to read, think and ponder over these ideas, discuss them with our neighbors, and be prepared to act upon them later.

POOR DRIVING

Many automobiles are still driven improperly, in spite of all the people who are prosecuted for reckless operation of such machines. It is so difficult, and it would cost so much, to get at the majority of drivers who do reckless things, that many people feel that poor driving can't be helped.

Yet the situation is not quite so hopeless as that. A great deal of this occurs simply because of the individual's bad manners, and most people can be made ashamed of such failings. A great many who do not hesitate at downright dishonest and even cruel conduct, who will cheat their neighbors and defraud the government, are yet ashamed to appear boorish in daily life. They care more for the exterior appearance of politeness than they do for substantial justice and right living.

The way to get at such people, is to make it clear that the person who drives a car in a way to endanger the public, is giving a glaring exhibition of selfishness. He makes himself an object of disgust and criticism. There are not many people who care to do that, if they fully realize that their conduct has that effect on others.

A great deal of this unmannerly driving is merely thoughtlessness, the heedless act of people who should know better, but never have considered how their ways are regarded by the public.

When they tear around corners and almost run over pedestrians, and grab rights of way that do not belong to them, they are regarded as rough and coarse persons who are unfit to associate with the public on even terms. If they could only realize the impression they thus create among those who are endangered or who see their acts, many of them would mend their ways. They need to see themselves as others see them. They should be assisted to do so in all possible ways.

NON-COMBATANTS

It is a startling record which "The Panel" published by the Association of Grand Jurors of New York County sends out for publication.

In the nineteen months ending July 31, 1931, forty-three innocent bystanders were hit by bullets flying about the streets of the American metropolis. Four of these, a girl of ten, a boy of four, a boy of ten and a man, were killed. Five boys, three girls, six women and 25 men were wounded.

And last Friday after "The Panel's" report had been issued, ten more people were wounded, including a four-year-old girl.

With 53 innocent persons hit by flying gangster bullets in the supposedly civilized city of Greater New York in a little more than a year and a half (these figures do not include officers killed or wounded in performance of duty), belief that police as now constituted are able to protect life, must be wearing pretty thin in that town; as it is in many towns.

How long will it be, before the country will awaken to an understanding that it has a genuine war on, with a class of outlaws that possess the ethical ideas of jungle savages, and that if anything is to be done, war measures must be adopted.

Whenever politicians or statesmen or financiers get together and talk solemnly about revisions of reparations and war debts, what they really are trying to do is to evolve a plan that will force or persuade the United States to forgive its debtors.

Benjamin Franklin's statement that honesty is the best policy has been discarded as outworn and obsolete by a large number of the millions of people living in the country he helped to found.

MY NEW YORK

BY JAMES ASWELL

AT SEA—Due to the illness of Commodore Randall the captain's dinner was not as festive an affair as such functions usually are. However, there was the customary quota of toy balloons and favors with explosive caps. All of the bald-headed men wore paper foolscaps with feathers and colored views of the Leviathan teething a yellow and pink sea. I found half a balloon underneath my portion of chard-froid of duckling a l'orange and the soup was gayly flecked with confetti.

MARINE STRATEGY

I do not know who picks the talks for exhibition at sea, but I have never heard of anyone, crossing on any of the lines, who has seen a good one. Last night the exhibit was something called, I believe, "One Reckless Hour," all about a poor little girl who fell into the clutches of a wicked rich boy.

Still, the hour solved a problem which has often perplexed students of the trans-Atlantic cinema. What would be the attitude of a steamship line toward a movie offered for exhibition at sea which depicted the hero and heroine about to embark upon a rival liner? Mr. Conrad Nagel and Miss Somebody were about to elope to Europe. The harrowing moment approached when it would be necessary to name the boat they intended to take. The audience trembled lest Mr. Nagel should command his butler to go across two decks on the II de France or the Ma-jestic.

However, at the proper time, Jeeves was told to engage a stateroom on the Leviathan—and everybody sighed deeply with relief. The United States Line had attended to another detail.

ERE'S 'OW

Smithers, the room steward, informs me that there is an English stateroom line, plying between London and Africa ports, which has been enjoying a strange request for fifty years. Each Tuesday all the room stewards receive a fat lot of Jamaica rum gratis, while the oillers, cooks and engineers get two every day. This is made possible by the will of an old lady whose entire estate was set aside to provide the luxury.

INNOCENTS ABROAD

"Do you realize," the small tourist asks this morning, "that tomorrow night we shall be in Paris?" This rhetorical question has probably been put millions of times en route to Europe. I have never heard "Do you realize that tomorrow night we shall be in New York?" And yet the expression on the faces of home-coming travelers is far more ecstatic than anything to be seen in the eyes of those Paris bound.

For ten years Americans have been ashamed to acknowledge any genuine enthusiasm for their land. The word Babbitt has thrown the fear of scorn into their hearts. Only visitors are allowed to become excited about New York.

And from the same motive I have heard the boats of European lines praised to the skies over anything America can offer. I am told that some ship's officers of foreign lines instruct stewards not to speak English too well with Americans. Americans are supposed to consider semi-unintelligibility very smart. This is nonsense of a particularly offensive sort. The smartest appeals on any boat, for me, are prompt and efficient service, cordience, understanding and cleanliness.

SICK SEMPER TYRANNIS

FARM STATE REGARDS PRESENT SYSTEM UNFAIR IN WEALTH DISTRIBUTION

WASHINGTON—"If a man of real ability and such a character as great numbers of people naturally trust were to hoist the red flag in this country today," said Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, "a very dangerous situation would be created."

"Communist propaganda is widespread, and there are ample indications that it would not be ineffective, were the propagandists of a type to command much confidence."

"Personally, although I doubt that I am generally reckoned a conservative, in my recent speeches throughout the northwest," said the senator, who returned lately from a stay of several weeks in his home state and adjacent territory, "I have not considered it out of place to counsel moderation. The encouragement of further radicalism there is not at all necessary at present—or desirable."

"I don't like the role," continued Senator Nye, "of a prophet, giving warning of a threatened political upheaval. Nevertheless, actual conditions must be faced, if an upheaval is to be prevented."

"Hitherto North Dakota has suffered, with the rest of the agricultural states, from ruinous prices for farm products."

"This season, in North Dakota and adjoining Montana, prices are plummeting. Drought has destroyed all crops, almost completely. Wheat, the staple, is the worst failure on record. Minor plantings, for the farmers' own tables, are a total loss. Livestock has had to be sacrificed for lack of forage. Even the grasshoppers failed, as an emergency diet for poultry. They arrived rather late, after the drought had done its work, found nothing to eat, and soon migrated elsewhere."

"Dire as was Arkansas' misfortune a year ago," said the senator, "it did not equal the proportions of this year's in North Dakota and northeastern Montana."

"My state's farmers began the long period of agricultural depression with substantial savings. 'Gradually they have drawn upon them; slowly they have increased their mortgages, while selling crop after crop for less than the cost of producing it—until now they arrive at what should be harvest time with their money gone, their credit exhausted, and not even the food to carry them through the winter."

"The towns are no better off. 'Merchants face bankruptcy. Many a lawyer would be glad of a job at day labor. There is the usual work for the doctor, indeed, but he must do it for nothing.'

Unlike some critics, Senator Nye speaks well of the services the Red Cross is giving.

"Our local chapters," he says, "are both active and efficient, but it is an open question whether or not they possess the financial resources to accomplish the task ahead of them. Assuredly they cannot hope for adequate contributions from North Dakotans. The funds simply are not in the state, to be contributed."

As the senator admits, possibly the state government can borrow. North Dakota's public obligations are not heavy, but neither do its laws permit them to be increased very readily, which may explain their lightness. That an additional loan can be floated promptly enough to meet the winter's emergency is rather doubtful.

"And, anyhow," commented the senator, "we have in North Dakota a farming community which has produced annually, for a generation, approximately 100 times the quantity of foodstuffs required by it for its own consumption."

"Yet upon encountering just one really serious crop shortage it suddenly discovers that it has been living under a system which makes that single shortage so overwhelming a calamity as to throw thousands of frugal, hard-working families upon what is closely akin to charity."

"Is it surprising that our community does not think highly of the system?"

"Next year," went on the North Dakotan, "we probably shall have a normal crop, but, quite likely, unsatisfactory prices again.

"I have come pretty definitely to the conclusion that the remedy for less-than-cost farm prices is to be found in the purchase by the government of all staple crops at a figure allowing a fair margin of profit to their producers. This will mean a distribution of money by the farmers, a consequent revival of commerce and the industries, a general restoration of purchasing power and, in turn, absorption of our agricultural staples."

"Price fixing in this fashion may be to sure, increase taxation upon incomes in the higher brackets. I hope so. I feel that income tax statistics have conclusively demonstrated the necessity for a more equitable wealth distribution."

"I believe," said the senator, "that the 1926 reduction, inspired by Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, in the rate of taxation upon our larger incomes, has been largely responsible for the concentration of enormous riches in the hands of the merest handful and the huge loss of purchasing power by millions."

"Nevertheless, in the very midst of the resulting crisis," Secretary Mellon still warns us: "Whatever happens, we must not increase taxes."

"Oh, no," immediately agrees Senator Pat Harrison from the opposite political camp, "under no circumstances must we increase taxes."

"If not," said the North Dakotan, "in my opinion we are in for extremely serious trouble, of which I shall not be at all astonished if we get a foretaste before the end of the coming winter."

Hay Fever Treatment Is Outlined

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

So far this week we have discussed methods of preventing hay fever. But supposing the methods have failed partially or completely and the attack is on. What can be done for relief?

The important points of attack are the eyes. I am of the opinion that much of the trouble in the nose gets there from the eyes. It must, of course, be familiar that all the moisture from tears and the secretion of the tear ducts goes into the nose through the lacrimal ducts which pass from the inner corner of the eyes into the nose.

The pollen grains which cause hay fever dissolve quickly and readily in salt solution. So they find ready means of such dissolution in the normal secretion of the tear glands constantly moistening the conjunctiva. This solution constantly bathing the nose, I believe, causes much of the irritation set up there.

The eyes then should be protected day and night. Close fitting goggles, so long as the weather and perspiration permit, should be used. The eyes should be doused regularly with boric acid or other preparation.

Epinephrin, commonly known as adrenalin is the sovereign remedy for the hypersensitive state. It should be used in strength and amounts recommended by a physician and can be used both as a nasal spray and as drops in the eye. Another drug lately made a part of our medical equipment is ephedrine, which can be used in solution in the same way as adrenalin.

The most effective remedy for the relief of the itching of the eyes in my experience is a solution known as "estivin."

The most troublesome feature of the hay fever attack is asthma. This comes on usually late in the attack, when the fall rains begin. Why it should be worse during rain is not easy to understand. One would think that the rain would wash the pollen grains out of the atmosphere and hence make the condition better. The only explanation that entirely fits the case is that the rain dissolves the pollen on the ground and the steam which arises is a concentrated dose of pollen extract.

The treatment of the asthmatic attack usually requires the services of a physician. Adrenalin and ephedrine here come into play again, both as nasal sprays and by hypodermic injection. The smoking of asthma powder cigarettes or the inhalation of the fumes of asthma powder gives relief to many. These powders are made usually of stramonium leaves and nitrate of potash. They are put up by all drug manufacturers in proper and safe proportions and in pleasant form, and can be purchased at any drug store.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

Mrs. R.: "I have always been bothered with pimples or blackheads all over my face. What can I do to get rid of them?"

Answer: The treatment was described a week or so ago in this column. Cleansing with tincture of green soap, or pulverized almond meal is advised. Remove blackheads with comedone extractor. See pamphlet—"Care of Skin and Hair."

R. M.: "Is mercurochrome harmful or beneficial to the throat if the throat is painted with it?"

Answer: Mercurochrome destroys infection without harming living tissues, so in the presence of infection it is beneficial, but has no other properties. As it contains a considerable amount of mercury, there is some danger of absorption if used frequently on the inside of the throat.

Editor's Note: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendinging can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Logan Clendinging, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association 1435 East Twelfth Street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

12-Year-Old Is Mother's Problem

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: My trouble is not love, but a daughter 12 years of age. She has been given every chance in the world, has always had the privileges of a good home and lots of good clothes. She is the only child but she will not take any care of her clothes and does not care how she looks."

I have talked to her, have whipped her and still do, but she will take her best clothes and just throw them down in her closet in her room and pile them back. She will not as much as put them in the wash.

"She has a nice room of her own, but she won't clean it once a week unless I give her a hard whipping. She is a strong and bright child in her studies, but I would like to see her neat about herself and house, as I have always tried to be myself."

"Please help me if you can, for it worries me so. I have always been strict with her, but this has been one big problem."

"A MOTHER."

Probably you have said so much about your daughter's untidy habits, and punished her so often for them, that she has a perfect hatred for the very thought of cleaning up her room and keeping her clothes tidy. I'd stop it at once if I were you. A girl of 12 is just eight years too old to be whipped. You make her more and more stubborn by such punishment. Please don't ever do it again.

Part of the trouble is that she is young and naturally careless. If she was my daughter I should be glad she was just careless of her appearance rather than a prim and proper little girl who spent all her time primping. She's bright and strong. Probably in a year or two, when the boys begin to notice her, and she wants to attract them, she will begin to spruce up. Then you will have trouble with her in just the opposite way. She'll be everlastingly drolling up.

If I were you I would never say a word to her on the subject again. That is going to be a hard thing for you to do, but do your best, and if you slip a few times keep right on trying. Let her be as untidy as she will and say nothing to her. Wait until someone she admires is at your home, her teacher or some person, and then if you have a chance, ask her to show them something new in her room, or get them to invite her to go somewhere with them. My guess is that she will gradually realize that she is uncouth in her appearance because she is careless, and will try to cure her habit.

If she improves ever so little praise her highly. Now mind, praise your little girl. Don't scold. I am willing to bet that in time she'll be a model housekeeper just like her mother. And stop worrying.

CAPRICORNUS IS THE SEPTEMBER CONSTELLATION

Capricornus (water goat) is the constellation that is in the ascendancy in the evening sky of September. Were it not for the fact that Capricornus is one of the 12 constellations of the zodiac, it would not challenge much interest with the naked eye star gazer. But any constellation that is in the great highway of the sun, moon and the planets holds a distinguished place in the sky that at once gives it importance. If you continue a straight line through Vega and Altair southward, you will readily locate the western-most star of Capricornus of third magnitude. The beginner should have his star map to assist in locating Capricornus.

DINNER STORIES RETALIATION

"What is your profession?"

"A traffic policeman."

"Then it was you who arrested me for exceeding the speed limit?"

"Yes, but of course—"

"Splendid. I have a chance of revenge at last. I will let you marry my daughter."

Rouge Makes Mouth Appealing

By GLADYS GLAD

Dear Miss Glad: My lips are naturally fairly well shaped, but whenever I apply my lipstick, it seems to make them look hard and unattractive. I'd like my mouth to appear soft and appealing, and as I apply my lipstick with a V in the center and carry the color out to the corners of my mouth, I cannot understand why I do not achieve the effect I desire. Can you enlighten me?

June—The first thing that I would advise is that you stop applying your lipstick so that it forms a sharp V. That little depression above the center of the upper lip falls naturally into a softer U shape, and a much more

Semi-Pro Teams Will Decide County Title

PLAN TO DETERMINE CHAMPIONSHIP; TO STAGE TOURNAMENT

Begins September 6; Four Teams Entered; Play At Xenia

Decision to hold an elimination tournament, beginning Sunday, September 6, to determine the champion semi-pro baseball nine in Greene County for the present season, has been reached unexpectedly following a conference here between the managers of the four independent teams that will compete in the series.

Drawing for the first and second round games resulted in the following pairings for Sunday, September 6, and Sunday, September 13.

September 6—Osborn Fulton Ford vs. Xenia Merchants at Xenia; Yellow Springs Athletics vs. Jamestown Merchants at Jamestown.

September 13—Yellow Springs at Xenia; Osborn at Jamestown.

During the series all the games will be staged on the Xenia and Jamestown diamonds. The Yellow Springs club has a road team and does not have its own diamond.

Under a set of rules adopted by the club managers to govern the tournament, a team will be automatically eliminated from further competition after it has lost two games. Defeat in one game will not mean elimination in the series.

It was found necessary to delay the start of the series until September 6 because of the fact that the Xenia Merchants are booked to play the third and deciding game of their series with St. Adalberts of Dayton at Washington Park here this coming Sunday.

Here is the complete set of regulations decided upon to govern the tournament competition.

1.—Players eligible for participation in the series games to be limited, in the case of each club, to fourteen. These players must, in order to be eligible, make their appearance at the field prior to the ninth inning of the first series game, except in the case of sickness or injury. Copies of each team's eligibility list must be in the hands of the rival managers and P. W. Frame, sports editor of The Gazette, by Thursday night, September 3.

2.—Each club must play every other club at least once, unless a club is twice defeated before completion of a full round of play. In case of tie games or postponement on account of rain, such contests are to be re-played at a later date. Each club is to furnish one umpire who will officiate on diamonds away from home. All four arbiters are to officiate the final game of the series when the title is at stake.

Manager Jess Chambliss, of the Xenia Merchants; Manager "Bunny" Bales, of the Yellow Springs Athletics; Manager Leo Bales, of the Jamestown Merchants, and Manager Slicker Groth, of the Osborn Fulton Ford, arranged the series and drew up the rules.

THE WRONG KIND

CAMP PERRY, O., Aug. 26.—One hoary Major of Infantry was waxing wroth today at the National Rifle and Pistol Matches. He had been assigned to the task of taking care of the trap-shooters, and he had aspired to be in charge of the international champions. He called his numerous assistants together and roared: "Any of you birds know anything of trap-shooting?" "Yeh, Major, I'm your boy—" a voice from the rear rank. A shave-tail advanced with uncertain mien and faced the Major. "What do you know of trap-shooting?" he was asked. "Trap-shooting! Good gracious, Major, I thought you said trap-shooting!"

RED WINGS, PLAYING WITH ONLY EIGHT MEN, DEFEAT CRITERION

Playing with an inadequate lineup, only eight players showing up for the contest, the Red Wings nevertheless scored almost at will and won as they pleased over the Criterion by the convincing margin of 18 to 2 in a National League softball tilt at Cox Field Tuesday night. Seven innings were played.

Possibly the Clothiers had better stick to non-league contests away from home, at which they excel. Gathering exactly a dozen hits, the Red Wings built up an 11 to 0 lead in the first three innings, then went scoreless for three rounds and topped off their efforts with a five-run spurge in the seventh.

Plenty of errors helped out the Red Wing cause. "Pino" Perrine pitched part of the game for the third-placers and "Speed" Leopold finished it. Between them they allowed the Criterion seven hits, well scattered, and no member of the losing club hit safely more than once. Herman Wells was on the knoll for the Clothiers.

ters with three singles and a walk and all other members of this team obtained one or more blows except Perrine, one-time batting leader of the circuit.

The Red Wings lacked two outfielders and Bob Yeakley and Tim Wakely had to patrol the entire pasture themselves. This deficiency in players did not cramp the Red Wing style, however.

The Lang Chevrolet will endeavor to clinch their second straight league title in a game with the Graham Paints Wednesday night.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

The magic, though in this case, misleading phrase "the championship is at stake," appearing in this column some time ago, was apparently the means of bringing about an elimination tournament in which the champion semi-pro baseball nine in Greene County for the current season will be decided.

After the observation was innocently made that the Xenia Merchants and the Jamestown Merchants had arranged a three-game series to decide the county title, this department was swept off its feet by protests emanating from the Yellow Springs Athletics and the Fulton Fords of Osborn.

This disclosure there actually are two other good independent diamond nines in the county this season and the way is now definitely paved for a series of games between the four teams to decide which is the best.

The forthcoming tournament, starting Sunday, September 6, is probably the first ever arranged between Greene County baseball teams and may easily be repeated every season.

The Xenia Merchants had already played one game of the series with Jamestown, winning it, and the contract between the two clubs called for the second tilt to be staged at Jamestown. This agreement has been declared null and void by mutual consent in order that the elimination series between the four teams in the county may be staged.

The fact that different types of baseballs, contrasting sharply in their lively characteristics, are being used in the National and American baseball leagues this season, leads to the presumption both will be used in the World's Series, depending upon the scene of combat.

For the sake of argument, the Cardinals, on the basis of present prospects, will be host to the Athletics on their home grounds in St. Louis for the first two series contests, starting September 30. They will put the National League ball in play. Then, when the scene shifts to Shibe Park in Philadelphia for a continuation of the strife, the American League ball will be in vogue for the game.

Alternate use of the balls of each league should afford an interesting chance for study and comparison. The American League ball unquestionably is livelier. Although this is quite convincingly revealed by the batting records and home run figures, the facts are sufficient proof alone.

Hoping to curb the hitting orgies by establishing more balance of power between pitchers and batters, the new leagues agreed to raised stitches, thus favoring the hurler and enabling him to put more "stuffs" on the ball.

Going a step further, the National League powers also decided to thicken the cover. Since the National League ball does not begin to travel with the blinding speed of the old horsehide, batting percentages in the senior loop have generally fallen off appreciably and home run clouters like Hack Wilson have been deprived of their chief stock in trade.

Professing to be highly pleased with the change, the magnates argue that better played and closer games have been produced and the exaggerated ideas of high paid sluggers have been eliminated.

Whether, however, the junior league magnates would even consider the plan of following the National's lead remains to be seen. The best guess is they would choose to retain the livelier target for the benefit of such well known gate drawing cards as Ruth, Gehrig, Foxx, Simmons, Averill et al.

RAY HENLEY BREAKS TRACK RECORD AT LONDON

Ray Henley, the handsome four-year-old bay gelding owned by George M. Hagler, near Xenia, has redeemed himself and then some in the eyes of local harness racing fans.

Piloted by the owner's son, the veteran trainer, Joe Hagler, the Greene County speedster, who last season was the sensation of the Ohio half-mile tracks, broke the existing pacing record of the Madison County fairgrounds track three times in one race at London Tuesday afternoon.

Flashing under the wire in record-breaking time to win the 2:11 pace valued at $400 in straight heats, Ray Henley lowered the existing track record from 2:05 1/2 to 2:04 1/2 in one of the most outstanding three-heat performances ever staged on a half-mile oval in the country.

Hagler drove his wiggler twice around the track in the first heat to win in 2:05, clipping half a second off the track record. The pacer stepped the second heat in 2:04 1/2, whittling another half second off the mark, and came back to win the third and final heat once more in 2:05.

Veteran horsemen declared Ray Henley's exhibition was probably the fastest three-heat race over a half-mile track in the country this year and undoubtedly one of the fastest in harness racing history. In each heat the local pacer exceeded his own best previous mark for the mile. Five pacers comprised the field in which Ray Henley competed.

GOODBYE, DEPRESSION!

"Business In Xenia Is Better"

That's what at least one downtown business man says regarding his store.

It is an experience being repeated in other Xenia stores. It is "good news" in business circles. It indicates a returning confidence on the part of the American people.

But it was never more clearly demonstrated than last week when stores were crowded and downtown streets filled with shoppers. This prosperous condition was brought about by a combination of judicious advertising in THE GAZETTE and special bargain offerings to the public.

Jobe's department store, one of the leading downtown business houses, reported the largest volume of shoppers in its history last Thursday when an over-flow crowd responded to a sales announcement broadcast in four full pages of advertising in this paper.

It was a marvelous demonstration of the tremendous drawing power of Gazette advertising when coupled with proper merchandising efforts, but it was more than that. It was an indication that Greene County's buying power, while it may have been held in restraint, is just as powerful a factor in this county's commercial life as ever. It was likewise a demonstration that cash money is still in evidence. For this sale was for "cash" and thousands of shoppers who responded, brought the cash with them.

The effect of this gigantic shopper-pulling power, resulted in mutual benefit for other Xenia merchants. Once having come downtown to spend, the buying power of a county made itself evident in the cash sales reports of nearly every other downtown business house.

It is an indication of returning sanity that charge accounts are dwindling while cash sales increase. The buying public has learned a lesson from a period of super-inflated prosperity and its natural result—a depression.

Thriftiness, once the backbone of the nation, discarded temporarily during a period of business hysteria, is again dictating the use of the family pocketbook. The dollar itself, is returning to normalcy in the sense that its buying power of pre-war days is gradually being restored.

These things make NOW a good time to buy for wise and judicious buying is the most effective form of economy. In contacting the buyer and seller the Gazette offers you a proven medium, mellowed in fifty years of experience.

EXPECT 250 CANDIDATES WILL SEEK OFFICES IN NOVEMBER

Heralding the approach of the November 3 general election in Greene County, candidates for various village and township offices and boards of education are already commencing to file their declarations of candidacy with the board of elections.

The time for filing nominating petitions expires September 4 at 6:30 p. m., according to Earl Short, clerk of the board.

Three vacancies will exist on the Xenia city board of education, and the three members whose terms expire this year will be candidates. It is understood, for re-election, although they have not filed nominating petitions. They are City Manager M. C. Smith, Louis F. Clark and Charles A. Bone.

The two members of the Greene County board of education whose terms expire are H. E. Bates and J. B. Rife. Both are expected to be candidates to succeed themselves. No other candidates for the two vacancies have been announced.

Whether Horace Anderson and Harvey Fulkerson, whose terms end on the Xenia Twp. school board, will seek the office again is uncertain. Fulkerson is serving an appointive term having been selected last spring to fill a vacancy.

Before the deadline date for filing nominating petitions is reached, it is estimated about 250 candidates will be in the fold. Terms of all village officials and all township trustees, clerks and constables expire this year, as do terms of from two to three members of township school boards and quite a few township justices of the peace.

Full states of candidates for offices in the municipalities of Yellow Springs and Bellbrook have already been submitted to the election board.

The ticket for Yellow Springs includes these candidates: Thomas A. Donley for mayor, H. L. Hackett for clerk, Fred Kershner for treasurer, D. W. Brannum for marshal, Ford Kershner, Henry Williams, Henry Groves, Henry Hill, Raper Hughes and C. L. McGuinn for council seats, A. C. Erbaugh, J. H. Horner and Joseph Holly for seats on the board of trustees of public affairs.

A lively fight is in prospect for the job as village marshal at Yellow Springs in view of the fact the position. It is reported, will pay $500 instead of $100 as heretofore. Four candidates for the office have already entered the race. Besides D. W. Brannum, other candidates will include G. M. Fletcher, Harry M. Morgan and Joseph Stroufe.

The marshal job at Fairfield must also be similarly lucrative as indicated by the fact four candidates are already entered for the office. The aspirants are John L. High, Samuel Todd, Harrison Null and L. H. Douglas. Null is also a candidate for constable of Bath Twp.

An independent ticket of candidates for Bellbrook village offices bears the following names: Oliver Watson for mayor, Jesse Weaver for clerk, J. R. Huston for treasurer, Allen Edwards for marshal, Earl Henning, Wayne Peterson, Harry A. Dumford, Charles T. Young, Elmer Adst and Victor H. Glass for members of the council. Watson, mayoralty candidate, also seeks the office of Sugarcreek Twp. justice of the peace, and Allen Edwards, the candidate for village marshal, also wants to be Sugarcreek Twp. constable.

Other candidates whose nominating petitions are on file with the election board are: Ernest Long for Ross Twp. school board; Earl McDorman for clerk of Ross Twp.; Fred Shellbarger, W. H. Parsons and M. L. Stewart for Bath Twp. board of trustees; George A. Baker for Miami Twp. constable; John T. Hornaday for Miami Twp. justice of the peace; Adam E. Longstreth for mayor of Fairfield; Harry E. Watson for clerk of Sugarcreek Twp.; H. Glen Shepard for marshal of Osborn and also Bath Twp. constable; D. G. Romapert for member of Fairfield village council.

The Theater

Dick Grace, flying daredevil of the pictures, plans to make six more plane crashes for the films and then retire. That's the plan of the Hollywood stunt aviator who has demonstrated he has more lives than a cat. Grace has survived thirty-four deliberate film accidents but in more than 75 per cent of them he has been knocked unconscious and injured.

Sometimes it was only a broken arm, leg or rib. But once it was a fractured skull and again a broken neck. Grace is planning to plunge an airplane into the sea—his most dangerous crackup yet—for one of the big thrills in "The Lost Squadron", his own story that is being made into a talkie by RKO.

Ominous indeed are the provisions of Grace's contract with RKO. First, they must guarantee to supply a corps of policemen to clear the area of the crash, also to pull him from his cockpit in case he is unconscious and unable to extricate himself. Then they must have a doctor and an ambulance, fully equipped for an emergency operation. Lastly they must have a strong stimulant to steady his nerves in case he isn't knocked out.

The price Grace asks for each stunt is $2,500, dirt cheap considering the risk. Grace has been a stunt flyer since his aviation days during the war. Once he quit, renouncing the dangers forever, and returned to his family in the East. But the call of adventure got him. He returned to his dangerous manner of making a living.

This column recently sent a shaft into the air regarding the future of Western pictures. Now Fox reports that the George O'Brien vehicles are big money-makers and that the next one will be Zane Grey's "Rainbow Trail". It is reported the budget on the last O'Brien film, "Riders of the Purple Sage", was $250,000, which is a lot of money for a horse opera. Part of the expense is due to the fact that the company takes a location trip to Utah or Arizona.

Frederic March will make the transformation from Dr. Jekyll to Mr. Hyde or vice-versa eight times during the course of the talkie version of the Stevenson classic. There will be no fade-outs. He will do it before the eyes of the audience. Kay Francis is the tallest girl on the Paramount lot, five foot seven, but she wears the smallest shoe—size 4. "The Champ", with Wallace Berry and Jackie Cooper, will be another film without the conventional love interest. Ina Claire's role in "The Greeks Had a Word for It" will be Jeanie, the girl with a mania for disrobing in public. In the stage play, both Schatz and Polaire were better parts. Joan Blondell will be Schatz in the film and Carole Lombard will be Polaire.

Twenty Years '11- Ago '31

Two hundred boys from the O. S. and S. O. Home will go into camp on the state fairgrounds during the entire week of the state fair. They will have their own band of thirty pieces.

S. O. Hale has received the appointment of principal of the schools of South San Diego, Calif.

A sane Fourth for Xenia is the object of an ordinance, prohibiting the sale or use of fireworks, given its second reading before City Council.

SILHOUETTES CAST SHADOWS BEFORE AT NEW DRESS SHOWS

By ALICE LANGELIER
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

PARIS—With the silhouettes of the good old days of Queen Victoria, Empress Eugenie and Madame Recamier casting shadows at all the dressmakers' collections in Paris, one is wondering which of them will have the upper hand this winter.

One of the prominent French designers is presenting a new line that is far from the fads of yore, a silhouette perfectly adapted to modern life. He has done away with all useless trimming and illogical ornaments, stressing the purity of line and perfect plastic beauty.

Many of Mirande's models, on the other hand, are inspired by the Directoire period. One sees sleeves set in puffs on velvet gowns. Tiny puffs on a black velvet dress are accompanied by the white lace yoke placed quite square at the neckline.

Still another is making molded-to-the-figure gowns, giving a new silhouette stripped of all unnecessary details, extremely neat and lengthening in line. Evening gowns show this silhouette to perfection, a line that has the slimmest of a perfect youthful body from shoulders to hem and at the same time, is flowing with fullness of the lower skirt.

Hiplines are frequently draped in a new way, but practically every dressmaker has a tendency to keep them close and neat.

INTRODUCING THE "FINEST"

In which You Meet
Xenia's Safety
Guardians

PATROLMAN ROBINSON

In October Patrolman George Robinson will have completed six years of service as a member of Xenia's police department. Robinson was appointed on the force in 1925 about three months after the late Charlie Simms was slain by a colored man whom he sought to question in the East End. To follow in the footsteps of such a veteran member of the force as Simms was a large assignment but Robinson has since proved himself a worthy successor. A veteran of the World War, Robinson is a member of the American Legion. He is on the night shift.
